FOREWORD

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS

THE following report, our sixth, has been necessarily curtailed in quantity to fit the limited means of the Class at the present time. An effort has been made and an opportunity given under "Comments" to maintain the quality.

It is regretted, however, that we must wait until the publication of the customary full report in connection with our twenty-fifth reunion before properly setting out the obituaries of our classmates who have died since the last report.

We trust this new report will be a convenience for all.

MALCOLM J. LOGAN,

Secretary.

THE HARVARD FUND

AS you may remember, the Harvard Fund was created in 1926 in order that graduates and friends of the University might have an opportunity each year to contribute such amounts as each individual saw fit to the Treasurer of the University without restriction as to its use. Each contribution is credited to the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Fund of the donor, and draws interest, compounded annually, from the date of receipt. While the amount of money contributed is important, the number of contributors has always been of greater importance, for the main objective of the Fund is to enable every graduate to contribute every year to the free funds of the University if he so desires. Our record has been as follows:

Year	Number of Contributors	Amount Contributed
